So this 'NeoSurgeon' should be versatile, right?
As far as I know, he can be programmed in to most technology with the right adjustments.. It wasn't hard to install him on this sonic, it's how we were able to bring him outside of his lab.
Well, our systems are pretty advanced, so it shouldn't be a problem transferring him.

While he's being uploaded I might as well introduce you to the team.

This is Lucky, a doctor and herbalist who tends to stumble on things most wouldn't. He's found all sorts of gadgets and magical items that have been useful for us.
Hello!

And we have Tenth, a night guard who joined us after having a few odd run ins with The Doctor. He's determined to keep Equestria safe.

Charmed, Bright-Eyes.

Wow, haven't heard that name in a while.

It suits you.

Yeah! The Doctor and I met him in the past during a war, and after he made a risky sacrifice to stop the big bad of the whole thing we brought him to Ponyville to live a quiet life!
How's it been, Tick Tock?

It was nice to be somewhere peaceful and not being ridiculed by others for once, although I started to notice things were off in the timeline. No pony took me seriously except for Torchwood, so I've been helping them get to the bottom of this.

That's why I'm here! There are a bunch of events and things that just aren't how they were supposed to be. I dunno what's happening but it seems really bad!

That's why we're all here. The universe is unstable, and time is colliding into itself.

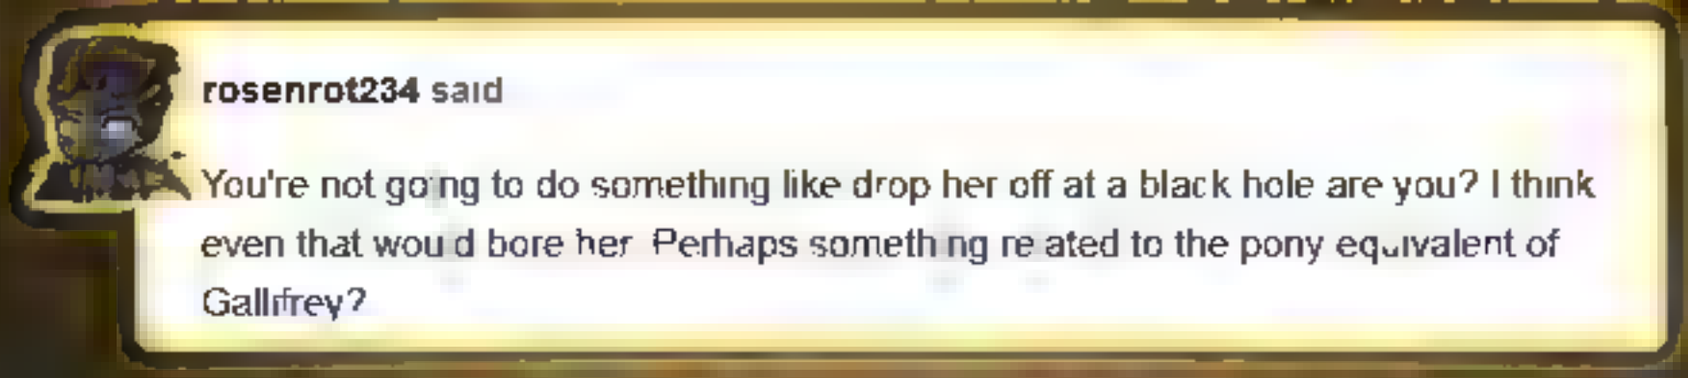
So has Octavia been a fun companion? Or is she causing trouble on your travels?
She's the absolute worst.
I can't get rid of her.



rosenrot234 said
You're not going to do something like drop her off at a black hole are you? I think even that would bore her. Perhaps something related to the pony equivalent of Gallifrey?

Heh, how did you know...? I thought I'd show her something so terrifying she'd want to go home, so I showed her a black hole. And instead she kept goading me on to get closer to it until I insisted it would be too dangerous, which resulted in her saying this was merely sightseeing and she was bored!

teakayblog said
Never had a companion quite like Octavia, huh Doc?
Nothing seems to impress this mare! I've tried theme parks, she said there's no real danger in a theme park. I tried skydiving, which she enjoyed for all but a moment before she said the falling was 'getting old'. I took her in to a virtual reality shooter game and she... kicked my ass and told me there was no challenge...

I'd be careful around Octavia if were you Doc Something about that pony strikes me as manipulative and not quite right How could she shrug off such an incident so easily ?

She seems numb to most everything. I don't know what Canterlot life did to her but I want to see her just once having a good time. Maybe that's why I keep trying.
